FRENCH GUNS BLAST 400 NAZI TANKS

Roosevelt Asks Power to Dispose Of Surplus Guns

President Follows Upon Plane Sale With Bid to Get Rid Also of Munitions Authority Exists
F. D. R. Says U. S. Can Turn Back Certain Supplies

Washington, June 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress today for power to dispose of surplus guns—as well as munitions and warplanes—through a legal channel which might release these urgently needed munitions to the Allies.

Reinforcing a navy announcement that 50 warplanes were turned back to their manufacturer yesterday, which made them available for sale to the fighting forces of France and Britain, Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference that he was asking authority to turn in old guns also.

While he did not say so, it was apparent that this would clear the way for the Allies to obtain large supplies of such weapons left over from the World War as the 75 millimeter gun which the French are using extensively in fighting German tank attacks.

Mr. Roosevelt said he was sending a request to Senate leaders to incorporate in pending legislation—a procedure which would make for fast action—the authority to turn in guns to manufacturers.

The Chief Executive told reporters that authority already exists to turn back airplanes and munitions to manufacturers.

The navy yesterday turned back 50 warplanes—most of them dive bombers for sale to the Allies.

But the power to turn in equipment does not exist for such things as the old 75 cannon.

One short but possibly significant statement ended the press conference.

Asked for comment on a newspaper editorial (in the New York Times) which said the time had come for the American people to adopt a national system of universal, compulsory military training, the President said he had read only the first paragraph and that he had liked it.

Mr. Roosevelt did not amplify that point.

The Chief Executive had no estimates of how many planes or guns or what quantity of ammunition might be turned back to manufacturers.

Asked whether new equipment could be turned in the Chief Executive said it could not. But he added that planes could get out of date darned fast.

Washington, June 7 (AP)—The release of 50 navy warplanes—a majority of them dive bombers—for sale to the Allies made the subject of further indirect military aid to France and Britain the No. 1 question mark today on the crowded national defense calendar.

The navy announcement last night that the "surplus" planes were being turned in to their manufacturer came only a few hours after the White House had disclosed urgent appeals from the Allies for all possible speed in the production of military supplies.

This sequence, coupled with a series of other incidents, gave rise to animated speculation as to whether the administration had reached a decision to extend much greater indirect military assistance to the two belligerents.

As attention turned to the White House for possible clarification, President Roosevelt had on his desk for signature the $1,492,542,750 naval appropriation bill providing for regular and emergency equipment from bombs to battlewagons. The Senate passed the legislation yesterday.

The "trade-in" announcement of the navy planes gave a definite indication that more aircraft would be turned back to the manufacturer and thus—although the announcement did not mention the point—be available for resale to the Allies.

The reason given for the aircraft "trade-in" was that improved replacements for the planes were almost ready.

The 50 ships turned in, the navy explained, had been used by reserve units and were now "temporarily in excess of requirements due to the fact that many of the reserve aviators normally attached to the reserve squadron have been ordered to Pensacola (Fla.) as in-

Germans Press New Drive on Paris

This map shows focal points of the new German attacks in France, which were reported encountering strong resistance, especially from "quicksand" defenses designed to trap tanks. At (1) the Nazis thrust toward the vital channel sector of Le Havre; at (2) they advanced across the Ailette canal, according to some reports. Meantime the Nazi airforce bombed the coast of England (3) in an effort to prevent England from giving aid to her ally.

Germany Will Fight On To Annihilation of Allies

Berlin, June 7 (AP)—Germany's war aims were announced by authorized sources today as twofold—"the annihilation of France and the annihilation of England; all else is beside the point."

Germany, according to an authorized spokesman, "always wanted peace and offered it again and again."

"England and France, however, declared war on us. Our aim therefore is annihilation until capitulation, until a knockout."

"Everything beyond that—as Von Reichenau (General Walter von Reichenau, commanding a group of German armies on the western front) is fond of saying—can only be revealed at the autopsy."

"It is useless to discuss the future while you are fighting in the present."

This authorized spokesman said all questions concerning war or peace aims will be answered categorically in the same manner.

Anglo Pilots Tell Shock Is Fatal Of Blasting Nazis To Loren Baker

Britons Say Their Raids Dislocated Tanks, Cars and Truck Convoys

With the British Air Force in France, June 6 (AP)—(Delays)—Bomb pilots of Britain's advanced air striking force declared today that they had pounded the nerve centers of German communications through the smoke of battle above the Somme river throughout last night.

They pressed home their attack so low that their planes sometimes rocked to the force of the detonation of their bombs, they said.

When the fliers returned to their bases early today and tore the goggles from their reddened eyes, they said their raids had caused considerable dislocation of columns of German tanks, armored cars and supply trucks in the areas immediately behind the main spearheads of the German attack.

One crew reported it had bombed a road in front of seven tanks, another that it had scored heavy hits on an armored column, still another that a bomb burst just ahead of the leader had stopped a convoy of 20 trucks, making them a target for machine-gun fire.

Export Order

London, June 7 (AP)—The government ordered today that all exports from the United Kingdom to the United States and Switzerland must be paid for in sterling at the fixed official rate or in United States dollars or Swiss francs.

Treasury Puts Ban On Foreign Stocks To Avoid Dumping

Importation of Securities From Foreign Countries Is Forbidden, Takes Effect Today

Washington, June 7 (AP)—The treasury quarantined all foreign securities today to prevent Germany from "dumping" securities that may have been seized in the invaded European countries.

Effective today, the importation of securities from any foreign country was prohibited unless the securities were submitted to a Federal Reserve Bank for examination.

Customs and postal officials were authorized to open any packages arriving from foreign countries to determine whether any securities were contained.

Treasury officials declined to say officially what the purpose of the order was, but made it plain that they were trying to prevent the sale in this country of securities taken away from "rightful owners" in Belgium, Holland, Norway, Denmark and Luxembourg.

They said that when securities were submitted to a Federal Reserve Bank for examination officials would try to determine whether they belonged to governments or nations of the invaded countries. If the securities came from these countries they would be subject to the same stringent "freezing" order already applied to securities held in this country by governments or citizens of those countries.

The order, however, applies to securities from every country on the globe. No matter where they come from, they will have to be examined.

But if the securities are found to be bona fide imports from countries not included in President Roosevelt's "freezing" order, they will be released.

Would Have Extra Session

White Plains, N. Y., June 7 (AP)—Call by Governor Herbert H. Lehman of a special session of the New York legislature, in order that this state may supplement national endeavors toward war preparedness and at the same time aid Empire state farmers in making their produce available for European markets was urged today by State Senator Pliny W. Williamson of Scarsdale.

Warnings Published

London, June 7 (AP)—British press associations published warnings today that invading German parachute troops would try to steal or commandeer bicycles and automobiles from civilians. "Parachutists do not, as far as is known, carry bicycles, but they will try to secure bicycles or cars from our civilians."

Hurt in Collision

New York, June 7 (AP)—Benjamin Halsey, 57, of Irving, N. Y., suffered a skull fracture early today when his automobile collided with an elevated railway upright in the Bronx. At Fordham Hospital, his condition was reported serious.

Nests Are Sown

Paris, June 7 (AP)—Official sources reported tonight that General Maxime Weygand had sown the entire area between the Somme-Aisne battlefield and the Seine river, just above Paris, with anti-tank defense nests.

Nazis Raid Wide Area of England, Damage Is Slight

Air Ministry Communique Says Little Damage Is Done as Planes Hit at South, East Coasts
Bombs Are Light
Citizens Tell of Seeing Bombs Burst and Light Like Falling Plane

London, June 7 (AP)—Nazi warplanes raided a wide area of England's south and east coasts during the night and this morning in the second air attack in 24 hours but damage from high explosive and incendiary bombs was reported slight.

A communique of the air ministry and the ministry of home security said there were one death and two minor casualties in the attacks, which apparently were aimed at airdromes of the royal air force. An eye-witness, however, said about six persons were injured in a Lincolnshire town. An airman at an airdrome was killed.

As air raid alarms sounded over the countryside, it was reported reliably that the United States liner Washington, now headed for Italy, would proceed to Galway, Ireland, next week to take Americans home from the war zone.

The Washington is due at Naples Monday and then is expected to go to Lisbon for about 900 American refugees. Reports from reliable sources said that about 700 of the 3,000 Americans left in Britain and southern Ireland would board the ship at Galway.

The U. S. liner President Roosevelt sailed from Galway June 1 with 720 Americans.

The air ministry reported that German planes crossed the British coast at several points. A check showed that air raid alarms lasting 40 minutes to three hours were in effect through coastal districts of the counties of Durham, Yorkshire, Lincolnshire, Nottinghamshire, Suffolk, Norfolk, Kent, Sussex, Surrey and Hampshire.

Man Collapses, Dies

Bombs fell on the outskirts of a small town in North Yorkshire but caused no damage. A 60-year-old man collapsed and died in an air raid shelter, however.

There also was an alarm in Cambridgeshire.

Residents of the southeast coast said they saw red flares far out to sea and a "bright red blob" of light that plummeted toward the sea and vanished, as if a plane had fallen in flames.

A resident of a town in Lincolnshire related that "I heard the sound of planes overhead and then a faint bang some distance away. Then came louder explosions, which shook people in buildings a quarter of a mile from where the bombs fell."

The bombs were light ones. One dropped on the roof of a building and another hit a cycle shed, the eyewitness said, adding that a number of men were caught in a shower of bomb splinters and debris. About six were injured, of whom three were taken to a hospital.

One man said "there was a terrific explosion which shook the building. . . . The bomb was exploded on the roof by striking a stanchion. Otherwise it would have come right through into the building with far more disastrous consequences. As it was, the

Weygand Orders Men to Hold Tight To Soil of France

French 75's and Planes Mounted With Cannons on Engine Blocks Work Terrific Havoc Upon Attacking Germans; Nazis Stage Raids

By The Associated Press
Paris, June 7.—Four hundred tanks of the 2,000-tank Panzer armada which Germany thrust forward to break the Weygand Line, have been blasted into activity, a French military spokesman estimated today as Generalissimo Weygand called on his armies to "hold tight to the soil of France."

A Weygand order of the day declared that "the future of France depends on your tenacity"—the tenacity of French forces with a bolstering of British troops which are opposing 500,000 invaders in the north, between the channel and the plateau near the confluence of the Aisne and Oise rivers.

Canonading from the ground and the air was credited by the French military with destruction of about 400 rolling fortresses in the first two days of the Nazi offensive. The push now is in its third day.

As if turning to another powerful blitzkrieg weapon to speed up the assault, Germany sent about 200 planes over France. They caused an early morning alarm in the Paris region but passed around the capital.

The aerial armada caused "material damage" in raids over central France, the French announced, but no casualties were reported. The air alarm in the central region lasted from 11 p. m. Thursday (5 p. m. E.S.T.) to 2:10 a. m. today during which time the sound of bombs could be heard in Paris.

The French capital is less than 70 miles from the center of the 200-mile northern front, the western half of which is the really active zone.

Nazis Use 40 Divisions

The military spokesman estimated that the Germans were using 40 divisions—about 480,000 men—in addition to four or five tank or panzer divisions with a normal complement of about 500 machines each in the great effort to rend the improvised Weygand line.

Observers recalled the statement yesterday by the semi-official Telefrance News Agency that the Nazi panzer divisions must be far from their handbook strength because of losses in the Flanders battle.

Canon-carrying French and British planes and land batteries joined in the assault on the tanks as fast as they penetrated the pliant Weygand line.

The defense line, hugging the marshlands, hills and rivers to exact the extreme defensive value from the terrain, was said to be holding as the battle went into its third day—that is, holding in the fluid manner which permitted the snaring of hundreds of Nazi tanks which burst past outlying positions.

The western wing had withdrawn yesterday to the Bresle river region, 17 miles south of Abbeville.

Once within the defense zone the mechanized monsters were said to have found themselves snared like flies on flypaper, every move enmeshing them further in the vast tank trap which the Weygand line has become.

Bolted to Blocks

Light cannon bolted to the motor blocks of allied planes rained bursting steel on the top of the tanks—their Achilles heel—while land gunners pounded them at point-blank range.

The military spokesman said that the Germans had sent about 480,000 infantrymen into battle in the wake of the tank assaults. They sought to find weak points in the Weygand defenses for follow-through attacks.

Weygand's message of the day to the troops recalled that of his predecessor General Maurice Gustave Gamelin after the Germans broke through the northern extension of the Maginot Line in the Sedan region in connection with the Maytime sweep through the Netherlands and Belgium.

Gamelin told his men—now Weygand's—not to fall back, to hold their positions or advance. "The order is to defend our positions without thought of withdrawal. . . . look only forward."

The battle for France has begun, said the 73-year-old generalissimo. Everything depends on the stubborn resistance of the troops, he declared.

The high command reported resumption of the Aisne-Somme battle after today in these words: "After relative calm during the night the battle began again this morning in the same general conditions as yesterday."

Cauliflower Industry Feels Pinch of War

Cauliflower growers of Margareville, Stamford and other villages in Delaware county are wondering where they are going to obtain their supply of cauliflower seed for next year.

Many of the growers, like those in the Stamford area where some of the finest quality is produced, buy their seed in advance. Their plantings have been completed for this year, but the question is where the next year's seed supply is coming from.

Few persons, outside of the cauliflower growers and the seed dealers, realize that Denmark, the source of the cauliflower seed supply, demoralized by the Nazi invasion, has no seed for sale.

All Italian Ships Are Ordered Off High Seas and Sailings Are Canceled

New York, June 7 (AP)—The Italian Line reported today that all Italian ships on the high seas had been ordered into neutral ports.

Italo Verrando, New York manager of the line, said the order canceled all sailings and that all Italian ships were safe. He said the order came directly from Rome.

Several weeks ago the Italian Line rushed its huge passenger liners Rex, Conte Di Savoia, Roma and others to Italian ports and postponed their sailings.

Asked if this meant war, Verrando said: "I don't know but it looks like it."

Several Italian vessels were in eastern U. S. ports.

The Italian freighters Arsa, Aussa, Alberta, San Leonardo and Brennero were in New York harbor and the Belvedere was at Philadelphia.

Verrando said other Italian vessels in American waters were expected to put into U. S. ports between Key West and Cape Hatteras by noon today, indicating that speed was a necessary factor in the Italian plans.

The order from Rome told ship captains to "put into the nearest neutral port at once," Verrando said.

"Our ship captains are allowed to use their discretion about what to do," he added. "We do know that all our vessels are safe."

He said the liners Vulcania and Saturnia, recently transferred from the New York-Italy run to the Italy-South America trade, also were safe in Italian ports, as was the Augustus.

"We do not expect to get much more from Rome," Verrando said. "We have our orders and will follow them."

HIGHLAND

President's Day Is Held
Highland, June 7 — President's day, which has become an annual event of the Women's Club of Southern Ulster was observed Tuesday afternoon at the parish house of Ascension Church, West Park. The welcome was extended by Mrs. A. Lorin LeFevre, president of the local club, who introduced Mrs. Malcolm P. McCoy, chairman of the Department of Motion Pictures for New York state. She described what is being done in different districts of the state and of the legislation pending. A list of new pictures was given with emphasis on The Magic Bullet. She was followed by Mrs. Theodore Oxholm, chairman of the nursing committee for the town of Esopus and the health work done by the committee in the community was an achievement to be proud of.

Mrs. Lester Brown, a chairman on foreign affairs, advised everyone to gather all the information they could before making decisions. She said that no one could tell us that civilization would stop tomorrow or next year and that we needed a spiritual armament to survive. Substituting for Warren Sherwood, who was unable to present his paper on the part the town of Lloyd had in the Revolution in the years 1775-1780, and when it was the New Paltz patient, was Miss Eliza Raymond.

Mrs. Harry Rhorn, supervisor of music in the high school, was introduced and accompanied three of her students, Thomas Puleo, Joseph Crucilla and Philmore Terwilliger, for two songs, "Softly as in a Morning Sunrise" and "Strike Up the Band." The last number was the state prize winning dramatic recitation of Miss Doris Coutant, "The Eye," of Edgar Allen Poe. Miss Coutant won the state honor at the Forensic League meet in Highland in April and stood high in the National finals at Terre Haute, Ind.

Guests from the New Paltz Study Club were the president, Mrs. Andrew L. F. Deyo, Mrs. Hiram Reyley, Mrs. Eugene Reyley, Mrs. White, Mrs. Charles Wells, Mrs. Chase, Mrs. B. F. Mattison, and from the Rosendale club, Mrs. Stephen Huben, Mrs. Henry T. Coats and Mrs. Patrick O'Connor.

Fruit punch and cakes were served under the direction of Mrs. James Callahan, Mrs. Jesse Alexander and Mrs. Percy Mott. This closes the season for the club until fall.

Village News

Highland, June 7—Previous to the speaking contest Tuesday evening a horse shoe pitching contest was held on the school grounds. The best out of 3 rounds was won by Adrian Arnold of Delmar with a score of 2-0. The other two contestants were Albert Farrer, Hillsdale, and John Brown, Otisville for Ulster, Orange and Sullivan counties. The judges were W. Jack Weaver, Delmar, and George DuBois, Highland. Arthur Poelma was score keeper. The winner competes at the state fair for prizes.

Michael DeMare was stricken with a heart attack Tuesday evening just above the Elms while on his way to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bertram Cottine. He was placed in a car and attended by Dr. C. F. Meekin while taken home.

The Highland Tennis Club defeated the Shawangunk Country Club last Sunday at Ellenville. The return engagement is played here on Sunday. Members of the local club are Allan Hasbrouck, Gordon Wilkins, David Corwin, Fred Randall, Stockholm Baldwin, Elmer D. Randall.

The trustees of the public library held their regular monthly meeting Monday evening and Thursday evening the book committee met.

Miss Barbara Lent, a freshman at Vassar College completed her final examinations and returned home Monday for the vacation period.

On Sunday the American Legion baseball nine will play the Meadowbrooks of Jersey City on the P.T.A. athletic field at 3 o'clock. Last Sunday the Meadowbrooks defeated the Schenectady General Electric nine 5-0.

Mrs. Bertram Cottine and Mrs. Mabel Yaeger attended the dinner and meeting of the O. E. S. at Red Hook Tuesday evening.

On Saturday the Dande Lodge, 919, F. & A. M., of New York celebrate their silver anniversary and as a member Bertram Cottine with Mrs. Cottine will attend the ceremonies.

Mrs. A. W. Lent attended the funeral services for the late Mrs. Jennie Hadden Lent at Pleasant Plains Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Lent was an aunt of Mr. Lent.

A sectional state speaking contest was held Tuesday evening in connection with the regular meeting of Highland Grange. This was under the direction of Arthur Poelma and those taking part represented the Future Farmers of America, The winner, James Stewart Grinn of Delmar, representing Albany and Rensselaer counties, had for his subject, "Cooperation Begins at Home." John Gruner, winning second place, Highland, for Ulster, Sullivan and Orange counties, spoke on "Distribution and Consumption of Agricultural Products." Myron Filkins, Roscoe Falls, for Rensselaer and Washington counties, had for his subject, "The Rising Sun." John Metter, Hillsdale, for Columbia and Dutchess counties, spoke on, "Industry and Agriculture Face a New Century."

The judges were Miss Lucille Stephens, Poughkeepsie; Miss Natalie Barnes, Newburgh, state superintendent of juvenile judges, and the Rev. D. S. Haynes, the winner enters the contest at the State Fair in Syracuse, where prizes of $50, $25 and six of $10 each will be awarded.

Hobbies were features at the Grange meeting in charge of Mrs. Philip Bravata and Mel Puleo. There was a large display and included were paintings entered by Mr. Puleo; embroideries, Mrs. Mary Carroll; braided scatter rugs, Mrs. Harvey Craig; old glass ware, Miss Dorothy Roe; needlepoint, Mrs. Bravata; bottles, all shapes and sizes, Edwin Dohrman; paintings, Mrs. Mabel Schneider; sketches, Carl Schneider; many samples of sand, Mrs. Gladys Mears; advertisements from tops of match books, Miss Charlotte Shaw; embroideries, Mrs. Albert Shaw; two crocheted bed spreads, Mrs. Charles Bell.

Edward Hecht presented the Grange with a radio and announcement was made of a portion supper Thursday evening at the home of Earl Kisor. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schriber, Leander DuBois, Mrs. Ruth Smalley and Mrs. A. Young.

Plan Honor for 'Jimmie' Rice

Ithaca, N. Y., June 7—An event regarded as significant to the poultry industry of the United States, and particularly to New York state, will be the formal dedication of the poultry building at the New York state college of agriculture, Cornell University, as "Rice Hall."

It will be the first college building in the country to be named in honor of a poultryman. The dedication, to which the public is invited, takes place on June 29 at the poultry building at 11 o'clock in the morning, eastern daylight saving time.

The honor goes to Emeritus-Professor James E. (Jimmie) Rice, who is still a poultryman, has been a professor and teacher, and a world figure in poultry circles. Seldom, it is pointed out, is recognition bestowed within the lifetime of the person so honored.

Speakers will include President Edmund E. Day of Cornell University; Dr. Carl E. Ladd, dean of the New York state colleges of agriculture and home economics; Dr. Liberty Hyde Bailey, former dean of the agricultural college; representatives of leading poultry interests; and Professor Rice himself.

Professor Rice was called to Cornell University as the first professor of poultry husbandry in 1903. There he developed poultry science and practice, which received little or no attention at that time and helped to place it in a respected position in the field of learning. During his thirty years of work at Cornell as head of the poultry department he molded the thought and activity of many engaged in the industry. Today, he is looked upon not only as the father but the grandfather of the poultry inspectors and investigators in this country. Early in his work he showed a deep interest in the activities of boys and girls, and has been an inspiration to many.

Nationally, it is pointed out, he has always been in the front lines when the need arose for fighting in defense of the poultry industry. From 1934 to 1938 he was president of the Northeastern Poultry Producers' Council.

Professor Rice was one of the founders of the Poultry Science Association and became one of its first fellows. He was also one of the organizers of the World's Poultry Science Association, of which he is now president. He was general chairman of the seventh World's Poultry Congress at Cleveland in 1939, which was called the "million dollar show for a billion dollar industry."

Announce Plan For Meat Cutters

Ithaca, N. Y., June 7—The program for the meat retailers' short course at Cornell, June 10 and 11, is announced by Professor R. B. Hinman of the department of animal husbandry.

Speakers on Monday morning will be R. O. Roth of the national livestock and meat board and A. T. Edinger of the Federal bureau of agricultural economics. The topic is "successful beef cutting, pricing, and merchandising." Presiding will be Mr. Babcock of Ithaca.

In the afternoon the following topics are scheduled: the truth about lard, by R. O. Roth; new developments in freezer lockers, by K. F. Warner of the United States department of agriculture; why meat spoils, by Dr. Otto Rahm. Round table discussions are in charge of Warner, Edinger, and Fred Wilcox of Ithaca. Presiding at the afternoon session is John Simon of Elmira Heights.

At the evening session, to which the public is invited, Miss Lorna Barber of the college of home economics discusses "What does the customer say about his meat retailer?" Faith Fenton of the same college comments on "we rarely eat meat raw"; and Professor J. K. Loosli speaks on "the meat we eat." Presiding will be Mrs. Jessie Boys of the college of home economics.

Tuesday's speakers include Dr. Alex Zeissig of the veterinary college, Dr. G. O. Hall of the poultry department, Professor J. I. Miller of the animal husbandry department, and others. Max Ruser of Rochester presides at the morning session, and Professor Hinman at the afternoon parley. Topics relate to business and production problems.

A handy vitamin chart that can be tacked up in the kitchen is available free to New York state homemakers. They should send a penny post card to the Office of Publication, Roberts Hall, Ithaca, N. Y., and ask for bulletin E-289.

'Stukas' and 'Panzer': An Etymological Note

The following explanation of two much-used terms appeared in today's New York Herald Tribune:

With Germany's onslaught against the Allied powers in the west, two more German words—"Stukas" and "Panzer Divisionen"—have found their way into general use.

A "Stuka," or dive-bomber, plane is technically known to the Germans as a "Sturzkampfflugzeug." Translated literally, the compound word means "plunge - fight - flying - implement." This mouthful was telescoped to "stuka."

"Panzer" means coat-of-mail. Because the Germans have always been prone to coin new words by combining others, "Panzer" was prefixed to anything which was armored. The scuttled pocket battleship Graf Spee, for instance, was officially described as a "Panzerschiff," or armored ship. "Panzer Divisionen," therefore, means, literally, armored divisions.

Y.M.C.A. Fund for Prisoners-of-War Work in Europe

Twelve hundred Y. M. C. A.'s in the United States are asked to co-operate in securing funds for work among prisoners-of-war in Europe, in an open letter from John E. Manley, national general secretary.

The letter received Friday by Robert L. Sisson, general secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., reported $20,000 raised by American Associations during the past six months for prisoners-of-war work. Participation in this service was authorized by the national board last October. Funds contributed from this country are being administered by the World Alliance of Y. M. C. A.'s with headquarters in Geneva.

Pointing to the Y. M. C. A.'s services to prisoners-of-war from 1914-1917 as "one of the most important and productive responsibilities the association ever undertook," the letter states that the need is as great today. Representatives of the World Alliance, visiting Berlin, Paris and London last September secured permission to act as the official agency for prisoners-of-war as it did during the World War.

Estimates on requirements to carry on prisoners-of-war work are expected soon from the World Alliance, according to the statement. Pending receipt of this information American Y. M. C. A.'s are asked to cooperate in raising a total of $50,000 before the end of the summer. However there will be no organized campaign.

Two secretaries of the International Committee, Donald Lowrie and Paul Super, have been loaned for work among refugees and troops. Mr. Lowrie is supervising work among Czech aviators in France and Mr. Super, after heading up work in Rumania and Hungary for Polish refugees under the American Commission of Polish Relief, is now working among Polish troops in France.

Men Meet Trouble En Route for Job

Thursday afternoon six men from Long Island drove into Kingston, and shortly afterward one of the men, Pasquale Menonno of Astoria, was arrested charged with operating a car without having an operator's or chauffeur's license. Unable to furnish bail he was remanded to jail to await a hearing in police court later.

The five other men, all friends, were not held. They said they were on the way to Pine Hill. Last evening they returned to Kingston with Antonio Davi, one of their number, driving the car. He was arrested on John street, charged with a similar offense.

The four other men, Ralph Juvane, James Todero, Renato Pisanti and Rosario Davi, were held on vagrancy charges.

None of the six men had money with them. The car they were in was registered in the name of Jovane, one of the party, who told Judge Cahill this morning in police court that he had been doing a friendly act in bringing the men to Ulster county in the hope of landing them jobs.

Judge Cahill fined Menonno and Davi, both $5 each on the charge of driving without a license, and the four other men were given 30 days each in jail, but the serving of the sentence was suspended provided they left town at once.

Cognette Is Held As Reckless Driver

Salvatore Cognetti, a truck driver of Schenectady, was arrested at 3:30 o'clock this morning on a charge of reckless driving in crashing into the automobile owned by John Haines of 582 Abel street, and narrowly escaping demolishing one of the police radio cars in which Officers Camp and Cullum were riding.

Cognetti furnished $100 bail for his appearance in police court on Saturday morning. According to the police report Cognetti was driving a loaded two-ton truck off the Rondout Creek Bridge at a rapid rate of speed and crashed into the Haines car, which was ahead of him, and then narrowly escaped hitting the police car.

No one was reported injured in the crash. The charge of reckless driving was lodged against Cognetti by the police.

Flag Week Proclamation Is Issued for Next Week

Next week has been designated as "Flag Week" throughout the nation, and today Mayor C. J. Heiselman issued the following proclamation:
To the Citizens of Kingston, New York,
Greetings:

Whereas, in these days of worldwide turmoil, with subversive forces and influences striving to discredit and destroy the ideals and institutions symbolized by our country's flag, all loyal Americans should answer this challenge by displaying and paying tribute to that flag as the emblem of our rights and liberties; and

Whereas, with this end in view, the period June 8th to 14th has been designated as Flag Week by the United States Flag Association, headed by the President of the United States as honorary president general, during which time patriotic exercises and other appropriate functions are to be held in towns and cities throughout all the land;

Now, therefore, as mayor of the city of Kingston, I do proclaim June 8th to 14th as Flag Week and direct that during this period the flag of the United States be displayed on all municipal buildings and vehicles. Furthermore, I do invite the people of Kingston to display the Stars and Stripes at their homes, places of business and other suitable locations as well as on their cars, and to hold patriotic exercises, plan flag parades and do other suitable things as a public expression of our love of our country, our allegiance to its glorious banner and our belief in the institutions of American democracy.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the city of Kingston to be affixed this 7th day of June in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty.

CONRAD J. HEISELMAN, Mayor.

Volcanoes of Iceland Will Aid Wine Making

Fine wines produced by aid of volcanoes in Iceland are the newest proposal of promoters in Reykjavik, the island's capital.

Iceland is much too far north and too cold in winter for grapevines to grow wild or to be produced in any ordinary way, which perhaps is why the Icelandic Norsemen who first discovered the coast of North America and were so impressed by the vines they found there that they called it Vineland.

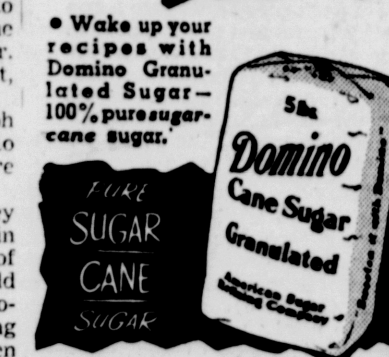

In the past any champagne or other wines that Icelanders enjoyed they had to import from warmer climes, but now this promise to be changed. During the Iceland winter only the hardest of plants can live outside of heated greenhouses, and, in a country where the only fuels are wood or imported coal, fuel heated greenhouses would be impossibly expensive.

Iceland, however, is plentifully provided with mildly active volcanoes, set round with numerous geysers and hot springs. What now is proposed is to make these the basis of a grape-growing, wine-making industry which it is hoped may produce some of the finest wines in the world.

Steam and hot water from the boiling springs, together with hot gases from the gentler of the volcanic vents, are to be trapped in vast concrete chambers and distributed through insulated pipes to fertile volcanic soils believed to be ideal for vine raising, like some of the famous vineyard soils of Italy and France.

Volcanic champagne from Iceland is expected to be novelty enough to command a substantial market in other countries also.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN INDIA

"Mahatma Gandhi, leader of 300,000,000 Hindus, refuses to please radical followers by launching a 'civil disobedience campaign' against Britain. He will not do this, he says, while Britain is fighting for its life in Europe. This may be a bigger factor in the great war than most Americans realize. The Nazis have been doing all they can to stir up trouble in India, and a revolt there would be very troublesome. The 'Mahatma's' political and moral power are great. His loyalty might be a crucial factor in saving European democracy. He proves himself a very good sportsman. Maybe he learned that in England—or maybe it was born in him.

The modesty of this gentle autocrat is incredible. In a recent speech to his followers, he said: "I am supposed to be your general, but I do not know a more feeble general in history. My only sanction is the love and affection in which you hold me. I go on making my experiments, and also go on declaring my mistakes whenever I discover them. I am an erring mortal like you. I have never even in my dreams thought that I was a Mahatma (great soul) and that others were little souls. We are all equal before our Maker—Hindus, Moslems, Parsees, Christians, worshippers of one God. Why then do we fight among ourselves?"

So speaks the Asiatic dictator. Imagine European dictators talking so!

COUNTRY-STYLE APARTMENTS

From the country's biggest city comes the word that the "country apartment mode of living" is increasingly popular. This, it develops, is a combination of the convenience of the apartment house with the fresh air and outdoor possibilities of the suburbs, if not of the open country.

Two large residential buildings of this type are now under construction only 15 minutes by subway from Times Square. The site was chosen for its convenient transportation to churches, schools, shopping centers, parks, golf courses, country clubs and beaches.

The buildings themselves will be surrounded by a setting of shrubbery, landscaping and tree-lined streets and will have their own garden courts.

The time seems to have passed when apartment house dwellers had to be content with plants on window sills for their glimpse of green and growing things. Treeless streets and depressing stretches of pavement used to provide the accepted view. There are still slums, or even better apartment sections, with such dismal surroundings, but that state is no longer considered inevitable.

VAIN SPEED

A speed limit of 25 miles an hour seems poky, even in a busy city. That is the rigidly enforced speed limit set by Providence, R. I. And it has been given full credit for that city's exceptionally low number of traffic accidents.

When the limit was first named there was naturally a shout of protest on the part of motorists. They felt they were unduly slowed down and that it was a backward step in a motorized world. The Police Department has rather cleverly silenced the protests. It sponsored a race the other day, in which one driver was allowed to cross the city as fast as he could go, obeying traffic lights, of course. The other driver, also observing lights, never went more than 25 miles an hour. The fast driver won by only one minute.

As between saving cars, limbs and lives and getting somewhere a minute earlier, who wouldn't choose safety?

JAPAN EDGES IN

Japan is forming a "me too" habit. There is word from Tokyo that the Japanese are going to demand a voice in any settlement of the European war. They take this attitude although, so far, they do not seem to have had anything to do with the war, and it has no obvious connection with the part of the world they consider "the Japanese sphere."

The Ethiopian in the woodpile, though, is revealed in an accompanying remark. Japan, says Tokyo statesmen, is "highly concerned with the fate of the Dutch East Indies." The fact is well known, although recent diplomatic statements have said Japan had no designs against those islands.

We may all have trouble yet over that tropical Eden.

THE FLAG SALUTE

The Supreme Court's decision that public school authorities may compel pupils to salute the national flag or be expelled from school apparently does not require that the issue be raised. It merely upholds the schools in their right to settle this particular problem themselves.

Annoying as it is to have pupils refuse to salute the flag, is it not less dangerous than to have them do so against their parents' command and without their own or their families' complete understanding of the situation? It is foolish of any group to maintain that the salute to the flag is a form of worship which places man-created objects in the place of God. The forced salute, on the other hand, will not advance either understanding or loyalty.

A little preparatory groundwork might be tried before a school resorted to legal compulsion. The school authorities should increase their effort to teach them precisely what the flag is and why we salute it. Such work ought to convert many honest objectors to the salute.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

INJECTIONS FOR POISON IVY

As the poison ivy season approaches, victims of this type of allergy look around for some method of protecting themselves. As the symptoms of poison ivy are much like those of hives and food poisoning, it is natural that research workers and drug manufacturers should be experimenting with a serum to prevent attacks of poison ivy just as with hay fever, eczema, and other allergic conditions.

The result has been various methods of using the vaccine or serum idea. This is that a tiny amount of an offending food or other substance put under the skin or taken by mouth will cause the body to manufacture protective substances to overcome large amounts of the offending substances should they be eaten, or the body come in contact with them. While this idea or principle works out well in hay fever, asthma, eczema, stomach and intestinal upsets, it has not worked out so well in the prevention of poison ivy.

Chewing the young leaves, taking "tincture" of poison ivy by mouth or by injection are methods used.

Dr. Leon Goldman, Cincinnati, in Journal of Medicine, states that the difficulty is due to being unable to measure the dose given that will prevent the attacks and yet not give the patient too severe a reaction. Research workers report most undesirable effects when leaves have been chewed such as severe swelling of the tongue and lining of the mouth which causes the patient to feel that he will choke to death. Even when the serum manufactured from poison ivy has been injected, there has been great skin irritation at and around the point where the serum was injected. While the injection of this serum during an attack of poison ivy does help some cases, in others it actually increases the symptoms.

The lesson from the above is that while injections for poison ivy appear to be effective in many cases, the proper doses in individual cases is at present hard to determine. This may be because poison ivy affects the outer layers of the skin only instead of the underlying blood vessels.

Allergy

Allergy or being sensitive to various foods and other substances causes many symptoms such as hay fever, asthma, eczema, hives, stomach upsets and others. BABSON ON BUSINESS

NO SLUMP FOR INDUSTRY

Babson Says Business Has Absorbed War Shock Well

Harrisburg, Pa., June 7.—Despite the violent news from Europe, American business has held its ground over the past month. A sensational surge in steel and other heavy industries has cancelled out losses in textiles, building, foreign trade, and automobile sales. Business has also absorbed violent shocks in security and commodity prices without throwing the upward trend (which started in mid-April) into reverse.

This is a remarkable situation. Ordinarily when the stock market is hit with a 30 per cent shakeout over a fourteen-day period, it is as sure a sign of a business slump as a rapidly-falling barometer of a storm. Added to the panic in the security markets is the drastic break in farm product prices. Wheat, for instance, is off twenty cents a bushel. Naturally, this sharp drop is having its effect on retail trade in rural areas. Sales are already off 10 to 20 per cent in such territories as Kansas City, Dallas, and Minneapolis.

Textile mills have felt the shock, too. Their schedules dipped 10 to 15 per cent as raw cotton prices were slashed two cents a pound. An incessant barrage of war news, twenty-four hours a day, does not help real estate salesmen close their deals. Consequently, the gains in home building, which were running along smoothly up to May 1, are now being cut down. Latest figures for the country, nevertheless, show 1940 is still topping the level of a year ago. The slowing down in building is reflected in a tapering off of activity in the lumber camps as well.

Automobile sales are beginning to take it on the chin. After listening to a fifteen-minute broadcast of war news, or a quick perusal of the War Extra, the average buyer has the starch taken right out of him. Moreover, loss of the North European markets is a big blow to our exports of automobiles. Motor output in the first half of 1940 has been at a very high level. Now, with big field crops, with sales slowing down, and with the export markets disrupted, manufacturers are cutting down production. The same situation is true in certain appliance and furniture lines.

Arms Industries Booming
These unfavorable trends, however, are all being erased by the tremendous impetus given armament industries. Current appropriations cover the largest peace-time funds ever set aside for our army and navy. New factories, training camps, shipyards, machine shops, foundries, will be needed to gear

America up to war-time needs. I say war-time needs purposely because it seems inevitable that most well-informed people that we will tangle with Germany or Japan some where, sometime. Terrific stock-piles of copper, iron, rubber, lumber, tin, aluminum, will be needed to produce this vast defense machine.

So much for what has already happened. Gloomy as the war news has been—far more shocking than that which swept across the nation in 1914—our markets and business have absorbed the jolts relatively well. Back in 1914 the market collapsed, then closed, and business dropped sharply. It was six months before we had a rally. This time, as I have predicted right along, the war should give American industry a tremendous lift. Hundreds of thousands of unemployed should find their way back to jobs (either in industry or in the army) in the next twelve months.

Foreign Trade Dislocated
America will, for awhile, become the world's Number One manufacturer, farmer, shipper, and banker. The wiping out of Denmark, Holland, and Belgium has temporarily given our foreign trade a rough time of it. Those countries, for instance, took over 30 per cent of our wheat exports.

The loss of our markets in the neutral countries should soon be made up, however, by our taking over of their trade with South America and with England. We will supply the Allies, for example, with steel which they formerly purchased from Belgium or produced in Northern France, with paper which they purchased from Scandinavia, and with foodstuffs which they purchased from Denmark and Holland.

Hence, I believe that, war or peace, our industries will continue to hum. A German victory should mean a far greater defense program than that now contemplated: while an Allied victory should mean billions of dollars for reconstruction. To the extent that the world continues its expenditures for luxuries, style goods, and amusements, these armament and reconstruction costs will result in an exhaustion of capital and world wealth. Then a lower standard of living throughout the world will follow unless unnecessary luxury expenditures are curtailed.

Repeat Wages and Hours
There is one other possibility. If the Wage and Hour Act could be repealed and if labor unions would be reasonable, we might be able to increase our armament expenditures and still maintain our present standard of living. As long as we have short-sighted politicians and selfish labor leaders, we will remain in control, I see no hope for this change. The people of the United States—I fear—still fail to realize that only integrity, hard work, intelligence, self-control, and sacrifice will save them.

It's Easy, She Says
Parrots, or no parrots, some speakers made some cracks when reporting ... that they weren't reported. For instance, Louise Thaden, the Little Rock girl who got off the ground to make good, said: "To those of you who do not fly I should like to stress this point: the mechanics of flying is NOT a difficult job. Learning to fly is about on a par with learning to drive a car, ride a bicycle or sail a boat. And there are no longer any heroes attached to flying."

And Bill Stout, who is president of his own engineering laboratory, predicted that the not-too-distant future would bring the day when we could buy a 100-horsepower engine, weighing about 100 pounds for less than $100; that the wings of planes will be detachable; that a gent may drive his plane about the streets until he is ready to go to the airport, button on his flappers and fly away home.

Stout says these new air flappers will be better able to land in smaller fields, on rougher ground, in bumper air and in stiffer crosswinds with less flying skill than anything we have now.

I think it was Oliver Parks, the gentleman from Alabama, who really started the minds of plane manufacturers reeling with the remark that there are "8,000,000 young men in our high schools and colleges who have more than a passing interest in aviation."

Gaps in Air Ranks

A person couldn't help but be staggered by the gaps in these ranks of aviation created by catastrophes of recent years.

Where were Will Rogers and Wiley Post? Where was Frank Hawks? Where was General "Billy" Mitchell and Amelia Earhart? All dead, and except for Mitchell who probably died of a broken heart, all died violent deaths in the service of aviation. In the light of recent events, the death of Mitchell, who washed out his career in a one-man battle for a great air force, probably was the greatest tragedy of all.

One couldn't help wonder, too, why Howard Hughes and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh weren't on hand. Enemies of the latter sort of such excuses as "high-hat" and "maybe he's too busy writing speeches." Friends said probably the "Lone Eagle" felt he had done enough for American aviation and "maybe the national

Today in Washington

If U. S. Should Sell 'Obsolete' Equipment to Allies, it Would Be in Line With Italian Action

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, June 7.—Technical neutrality is about all that is left now of the policy of the United States government in relation to the European war. Assistance to the allied cause now has become an openly operated program without apparent fear of involvement in the war.

The issuance of a ruling that the United States army now may sell any "obsolete" equipment such as rifles or munitions or planes is the first step along the lines of a benevolent neutrality which Italy has maintained since last September.

If American public opinion were not absolutely preponderant in support of the allied administration would not have dared to cut red tape and ignore the spirit of neutrality. As a matter of fact, the United States by its embargo policy last year swung so far away from traditional international law and custom that only now is it beginning to be realized that the Allies would have been better off if America had put no obstacles at all in the path of Britain and France.

The historic idea of neutrality is that citizens and private ship-owners can sell and transport any and all kinds of war munitions to belligerents. It has been customary, however, for governments themselves to avoid any sale of ships or supplies direct to belligerents. The moment a government enters into the picture either to finance the transactions or to sell any of its own military supplies the so-called neutrality is gone.

The American government still gives a semblance of obedience to the proprieties by declaring that the rifles and ammunition in its warehouses can be sold to private munition makers as a credit against new purchases. This permits the private companies in turn to sell the obsolete equipment direct to the allies.

It's just a way of circumventing the restrictions of a law which popular sentiment would like to see ignored anyway. But this is so mostly because the people approve steps short of war in the hope of casting enough weight into the balance in favor of the allies and possibly avoiding participation as a full-fledged belligerent.

The Nazis know that the American government's course is not strictly neutral, but it ill behooves Berlin to invoke international law when the invasion of Belgium and Holland is so vivid in the memory of outraged citizens all over the world.

The incident, however, is significant of what is coming. America will gradually find ways of giving more and more assistance to the Allies. It will be done within the flexible limits of national defense policy through the executive branch of the government and thus avoid the delays which a small minority might interpose if specific authorization were sought by a change in the laws themselves.

This method of circumventing a law is not new, but in a time of national emergency, the failure of any considerable number of senators or representatives to protest will be taken to mean the move has their hearty acquiescence.

The growing desire here is to do anything to keep the war zone as far off as possible and this means that the majority here feel every aid should be rendered the allies by cutting red tape and construing neutrality rules in a manner consistent with the forms but not the spirit if impartiality that has heretofore existed.

This procedure means that loans may ultimately be made which the Johnson Act would ban. Thus Canada is eligible for credit among the banks of this country. There is nothing to prevent commercial credits from being approved presumably for Canadian non-military uses if the Washington government wishes to construe the laws liberally so as to accomplish the desired objective, namely the protection of the Dominion of Canada against foreign aggression.

American wants to avoid active belligerency if possible and that is why to all intents and purposes the war resources of the United States are being rapidly placed at the disposal of the British and French governments. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

In October of 1921 a six days' inspection tour of the Hudson river and the state barge canal was made by federal and state officials and business men, including some 35 members of congress from all sections of the United States.

The trip was the culmination of months of effort to stir up national interest in the New York state barge canal and the St. Lawrence canal controversy and those who opposed turning the St. Lawrence river into a canal with the use of federal money. The purpose of the trip was to acquaint the group with the situation and give them a first hand glimpse of the river and canal.

Kingston was represented on the inspection trip by John D. Schoonmaker, James F. Dwyer, John Hiltibrant, Robert S. Rodie, Secretary Sidney D. M. Hudson of the Chamber of Commerce, and Thomas J. Comerford and another newspaper man of this city.

The Hudson River Day Line assigned the use of the steamer Hendrick Hudson to the delegation which numbered over 200 of the leading men of the Hudson valley and the United States. The tour started on Monday, October 17, 1921, when the steamer left New York city for Albany, and closed six days later in Buffalo.

As the steamer Hudson pulled into Kingston Point on Monday afternoon it was greeted with a salvo of whistles from five of the Cornell Line tugs which were lined up opposite Rhinebeck.

Each tug was lined up behind the other and each saluted in turn, and response was made by the Hendrick Hudson. At Kingston Point the Kingston delegation boarded the vessel. Also aboard the steamer were a group of newspaper men from many of the leading newspapers of New York city and state. The newspaper men had been assigned a separate state room, which was equipped with a battery of typewriters on which the newspaper men wrote their stories and then filed them in the various cities along the route.

When the inspection trip did not have the far-reaching results expected by the planners it did much to acquaint Congress and the business interests with the questions involved and first hand information as to what was involved.

The Day Line officials not only loaned the use of the steamer Hendrick Hudson to the delegation, but also exerted every effort to make the trip a memorable one.

The inspection trip of 1921 also recalls to mind the efforts that later proved successful in deepening the Hudson river so that ocean-going steamers could navigate the river from New York to Albany.

The Albany business interests and newspapers worked hard to have Albany made a deep water port, and lost no efforts to boost the deeper Hudson campaign.

One result of the deepening of the Hudson river in later years is shown by the fact that the ocean-going vessels instead of unloading in New York city now come straight through.

For years the cargoes were unloaded onto New York city docks and transferred to canal boats and towed up the river. The deepening of the Hudson river has cut deep into the canal boating business of the Hudson valley.

MODENA

Modena, June 7.—Miss Beatrice Ward is on the committee presiding the program of entertainment at the current meeting of the Plattekill Grange, on Saturday evening, June 8.

The final meeting of the present season, of the Public Health Nursing Committee of the Town of Plattekill, was held Monday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Lillian Paltridge. Plans for meeting which will be resumed in the fall, were discussed, as were tentative plans for carrying on the health program. The committee is collecting supplies for a loan chest to be used in the Town of Plattekill. Anyone having sick-room equipment or supplies not in use, and who wish to donate such articles to the committee are advised to notify Mrs. Lillian Paltridge at Modena, telephone New Palitz 6386. The supplies are available to anyone who needs them, at any time, by calling Mrs. Paltridge.

Harcher family visited relatives in Pennsylvania, Sunday. Archie Mackey has a new car.

Mrs. Kate Denton of Kingston, who is visiting relatives here, accompanied Mrs. John Denton to Kingston on Tuesday, where they visited Mrs. Curtis Eldred of Highland who is a patient in the Benedictine Hospital.

Mrs. Freston Paltridge was in Newburgh recently.

The regular Child Health consultation was held in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall Tuesday afternoon.

"Small Town Romeo" a comedy in three acts by Al W. Clark, will be presented in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall in Modena, Thursday evening June 13. Action takes place in the lobby of the Rushville Hotel in a small town, and the characters are as follows: Joe, Russel Carpenter; Sly, Eugene Stevens; Bud, Martin DePew; Morton, Gerow Wilkins; L. B. Loyd, Harold Wold; Betty, Mary Carroll; Sarah, Mrs. Arthur Delany; Miss Gates, Mrs. Nathaniel Dawes; Jane, Marjorie Minard; Anna, Beatrice Ward. The play is directed by Mrs. Eugene Beaver; the scenery by Nathaniel Dawes, and Arthur Foster.

The Modena Rod and Gun Club met Tuesday evening in the Modena fire house with 16 members present. The next meeting to be held Tuesday evening July 2, will end the present sessions of meetings. Regular meetings will commence in the fall.

The Mail Gets Through

Los Angeles (AP)—Kindness to dogs is reducing the bites inflicted on mail carriers, says Homer Hobbs, chairman of the mailmen's committee on the dog problem. So far this year only 15 mailmen have been bitten, far below the rate for previous years. Hobbs said one carrier had made friends with a vicious dog by bringing it a bone.

Investigation showed that the dog's aversion to mail carriers dated from the time a postman had sprayed it with an ammonia gun.

Sky Armies Weaken Defense

(AP Feature Service)
Washington—Military experts say the effectiveness of German parachute troops, landed behind enemy lines, lies in the fact they must be exterminated, else they'll dig in and grow into a major force. To combat them, however, diverts large numbers of defense forces normally supporting the front line in time of attack. The fact the Allies have not retaliated with "chute troop forays into Germany" indicates they have no troops of this type.

Plans Ready for Holy Name Rally In Poughkeepsie

Plans for the monster Archdiocesan Holy Name Rally, scheduled for Poughkeepsie on Sunday, June 16, are practically completed according to information received from General Chairman Edward A. Hannan. Grand Marshall Thomas J. Whalen has issued the following instructions on the parade, which will start at 2:30 p. m.

The parade will form at the lower part of the city of Poughkeepsie and will be made up of five divisions, as follows:

First Division—New York City units from Boats, trains, busses and private cars will form on the lower end of Main street.

Second Division—Westchester county units, form on South Water street.

Third Division—Ulster and Sullivan county units, will form on Harris street.

Fourth Division—Orange and Rockland county units, will form on South Clover street.

Fifth Division—Dutchess and Putnam county units, will form on North Clover street.

The Ulster county units will assemble as noted above on Harris street, which is the street south of Main street opposite the New York Central Railroad Station.

Ulster County Division

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, who will act as marshal of the Ulster County Division, has issued the information, that he has received, that all of the branches of the Divisional Union in the county will take part. A tentative lineup, subject to revision, has been given by Marshal Murphy.

es will be headed by music. St. Joseph's have engaged the recently organized Kingston Squadron, No. 150, Sons of the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps. This outfit made a most favorable impression in its initial appearance in the Memorial Day parade. They should make a big hit in the Poughkeepsie parade with their new uniforms and their excellent playing and drilling ability.

St. Peter's will have the senior American Legion Corps with St. Mary's headed up by the 156th Field Artillery Corps. Immaculate Conception will have their own fine band and this branch is expected to make with fine impression with over 150 members in line. Busses have been chartered to take the delegation to Poughkeepsie. Holy Name of Wilbur will also have a delegation in line of some 40 or 50 men.

Other musical organizations engaged by the various branches are as follows: Port Ewen Fire Department Drum Corps will head up Presentation of Port Ewen and Sacred Heart of Esopus; Clayton's Military Band will lead the St. Mary's and St. Andrew's delegations of Ellenville; St. Augustine's of Highland and St. James of Milford will have the newly organized C. Y. O. Band of Highland. This organization of 60 members will undoubtedly make a fine impression. Although no definite advice has been received, it is expected that the Sargent's delegation from St. Mary's will have the American Legion Corps leading them and St. Joseph's of Glasco will have their own fine musical organization.

The General Committee of the Rally has received advice that some 5,000 men together with numerous musical organizations will come from Manhattan and the Bronx, Westchester, Orange, Sullivan, and Rockland counties are also planning big delegations and undoubtedly Dutchess and Putnam counties will really be out in force.

Anchorage, Alaska (P)—Wolf hunting by airplane to protect Alaska's big game is advocated by Pilot Don Glass.

He declared that because hunters have to obtain the left front foot of a wolf to collect their $20 bounty they are not likely to hunt in inaccessible areas due to the expense.

He said he has seen wolves in ever growing numbers during cross country flights and that moose never travel singly any more because of the wolves but

Dean Drury to Speak
The Very Rev. Martin J. Drury, pastor of St. Mary's of this city and dean of Ulster and Sullivan counties, will be the principal speaker at the ceremonies following the parade at Eastman Park.

This designation is a signal honor, not only to Dean Drury, but also to Ulster county and particularly to the city of Kingston. His Excellency Archbishop Spellman will preside which also adds to the importance of the rally. This will be the first visit of the Archbishop, head of one of the greatest dioceses in the world, to the upper section of the Archdiocese.

Now Making World's Largest Shortcake

Ithaca, N. Y., June 7.—Marketing is receiving more attention today in many ways in farm circles. As an example, at a large celebration and parade at Oswego, July 5, strawberry growers and the farm and home bureaus and 4-H Clubs will stage a strawberry festival. They will crown a strawberry queen and expect to dispose of 3,000 pieces of shortcake. One-half of the proceeds will go to the 4-H Clubs which will have charge. A bakery will bake the cake, and a milling company will supply the foundation biscuits. Printed cards, which say that the eater has just completed eating a piece of the "world's largest shortcake" will be mailed free for anyone who will send them to friends. The cake is expected to be about four-by-eight feet in diameter, will be covered with cellophane, mounted on a truck and driven in the parade.

Norbert Heermann Sketched

NORBERT HEERMANN

Woodstock, June 7.—(By Margaret Hurter)—An exchange of courtesies among artists, who in a mood of mutual admiration, have caricatured each other, proves to be a free-hand flourish to see who has the longest nose or curliest eye-lashes—thus, to exaggerate the degage genius!

To be sketched as a Robert Taylor or Tyrone Power is an insult in Woodstock. Here, all the artists accent their flares of eccentricity. To say that Norbert Heermann, one of Woodstock's noted painters, looks like this sketch is exaggerating Norbert. Even his wife, who is Elizabeth Alexander, writer for the Saturday Evening Post and a novelist of note—even his wife was amazed at this sketch. But she liked it, and so did we, and here 'tis.

Sanderson "Sandy" Roome, one of the keen wits of Woodstock, did this bit of physiognomy, and that only means that Norbert Heermann as artists go is every important indeed, or "Sandy," who is also very important indeed, would not have sketched Norbert. Next time, we'll hope to show you what Norbert thinks of "Sandy," and meantime, thanks a lot Mr. Roome for promising to do that sketch of Robert Elwyn.

We first met "Sandy" completely surrounded by banjoes at one of Bob Chanler's famous parties.

Then Roome went abroad and married a very gorgeous creature, Louise, who is now mother of a charming daughter, Sandra Roome, who attends the Woodstock school. Last time we were up, we inquired about Sandra, and whether she had aims for the drama or art. "Sandy" said sure. But the lass was most outstanding, at the moment, in gymnastic feats. She can swing on the bars and hang by her toes and all sorts of things. Maybe that means she'll be a dancer.

The Norbert Heermanns occupy the finest estate in Woodstock, "Hay Meadows."

There is no place on the Zena Road that commands such attention and since the days when the De Laigre coat of arms hung over the arch, there have been no more charming neighbors in that locale than Elizabeth and Norbert.

Close by lives Murray Hoffman, noted painter, whose family were some of the original Dutch settlers of Kingston. Murray's wife is also named Elizabeth. One of the Kountze socialites of Newport. We recall her brother, Palmer Kountze, really does look like Robert Taylor and we have had a little fun at their house—also on the Zena road.

Going to Arizona

Now, we are so sorry to hear that Murray and Elizabeth, who have spent the winter in Palm Beach, are obliged to forego the summer in Woodstock. Their little son, Lindley, has developed an illness that requires the family to take him to Arizona. Little Phyllis Hoffman was a gay little girl whom we remember assisting once in a rabbit hunt. She had a pair of rabbits and it seems the gentleman rabbit went away. We suggested that maybe the bunny would come home when it got dark, but there were other quips that not even the bunnies come home in Woodstock.

Today not even Norbert Heermann is at home. We just telephoned and learned that he is in New York. We had a plan to write all about that prize he won. His portrait of Barbara Haver, daughter of District Attorney and Mrs. N. Le Van Haver. But, patience, please, until he returns. Then may be we can reproduce the portrait and tell you why Norbert Heermann is considered the best child portrait psychologist in Woodstock. He has a talent for making the little rascals sit still. And he has a talent for making them look like something their parents can make a speech about.

At "Hay Meadows" where the Heermanns count among their intimates such famous artists as Eugene Speicher, Kroll Kuniyosky, Rosen, McFee and others, Mr. Heermann has been devoting himself seriously to his book on Duveneck. In this volume, which is full of photographs of Duveneck and his contemporaries, and also reproductions of Duveneck's best work we have a dramatic story of American painting with much new material about such other artists as Courtset, Whistler, and Twachtman. It sheds new light upon Whistler's famous common law wife, Maude Franklin.

Came Here in 1911

In 1911 Mr. Heermann first came to America. He studied at the Art Institute, Chicago. His rather famous family were all musicians, but Norbert Heermann early registered as an artist who was making rhythm visually in his landscapes, figure painting and portraits.

In Philadelphia Heermann studied with Chase. In Paris with Tony Fleury at the Academie Julian in Montmartre. Later he studied in Berlin with Corinth, and thence came to Cincinnati, Ohio. It was while in Cincinnati that he became so interested in the art of Duveneck. Fortunately, his literary leaning made it possible for him to write an outstanding biography of that great American painter.

Following his marriage to Elizabeth Alexander, the name under which Mrs. Heermann still writes most famously, the Heermanns lived for several years in Italy. First the Dolomites, then Florence, Rome and Capri. At Capri for a year they occupied the Villa Quattro Venti, built by Elihu Vedder.

Elizabeth Alexander has a novel coming out any minute. The title is "Hero at Home." They tell me I am to have a copy of the book soon, but without having read it, the theme seems to be a husband is always a hero, even though he's just a husband. Or was it the other way round?

Plans Completed For V.F.W. Ball

All arrangements have been completed for the annual ball of the Joyce-Schirick Post, No. 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to be held at the Barn on Monday evening, June 10, which promises to be the best ever held by the local post. The committee in charge has spared no expense in securing the best talent available and from all reports a record crowd is expected. There will be two complete shows, one starting at 11 p. m. and the other at 1 o'clock, in order to give everyone an opportunity to see the show.

The acts are as follows: Master of ceremonies, Raymond Melville; Wells and Brady, Adagio Dancing Team, Black Cat Club, New York; the Wheelans, fast stepping dance team, Nut Club, New York; Walter Donaldson, songs; Jean Molyneau, piano; accordionist; Marion Bernard Obenaus in a two baton twirling exhibition; Arnold Stanley and his orchestra, with Emily Lynn Clark.

Hollywood News Is Death and Divorce

Hollywood, June 7 (AP).—Compendium of news from Hollywood today: Death and divorce.

The dead: Edward E. Clive, 60, British film character actor, stage producer and director, who played roles of Englishmen ranging from cockney to nobility, died at his home yesterday at tea time with a cup in his hand.

Florence Roberts, 79, veteran stage actress who was approaching movie stardom after 10 years in Hollywood, having played the grandmother part in 17 Jones family pictures. Found dead in bed of natural causes.

Suing for divorce: Tito Schipa, Italian operatic tenor, engaged in film work here for some time, vs. French-born Michel Antoinette Schipa, on grounds of cruelty, not described.

Mrs. Dina E. Schipa vs. Carlo Schipa, film player and Tito's brother, also charging cruelty.

Robert Jack "Bob" Gregory, English wrestler, vs. Valerie Brooke Gregory, daughter of Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, the White Rajah of Sarawak, British protectorate in North Borneo, on grounds of desertion.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Cautious

Columbus, Ohio—All this "fifth column" talk has made one man suspect even himself. Department of justice agents here said that a man reported himself to them because he had made indiscreet remarks in a barber shop and feared they might be misinterpreted.

Doubleheader

Pittsburgh — A panhandler sidled up to two patrolmen in plain clothes and muttered "kin ya spare a guy a dime for a bite to eat." Arrested for violating a city ordinance, he was standing quietly, awaiting the arrival of the patrol wagon when another man approached and asked, "could ya spare a nickel for a cup of coffee?" They both got 10 days in jail.

Exaggerated Report

Pittsburg, Calif.—The boys in the backroom held a three-hour wake for ex-Tavern Keeper Chet Feight. Then someone asked the cause of Feight's death.

They called the Feight residence in Berkeley: "How did Mr. Feight meet his death?" "You mean I am dead?" asked an astonished Feight. The boys in the backroom went home.

Main Street Fishing

Boise, Idaho—Dewey Comstock, maintenance man for Boise's automobile parking meters, was called to repair an ailing contrivance. He not only found a washer in the coin slot, but a string tied to it so that it might be fished out and used again.

Patience Rewarded

St. Paul—If you ask George O. Miles, that saying about all comes to him who waits has something in it.

After waiting 34 years, Miles got his first dividend on an $80 investment in a Canadian Telegraph Company stock. The check was for 16 cents.

Name Operation

Lincoln, Neb.—George Aksentowicz wants to wield an ax on his name.

He asked the district court permission to change it to George Axe, declaring Aksentowicz detracts from him socially and in a business way.

War Bulletins

Paris, June 7 (AP)—Fritz Erner, 34, German motion picture producer, was shot this morning, for espionage while a presidential pardon saved his Swiss woman accomplice, Carmen Mory, also 34 years old, from a similar fate.

The death sentence originally pronounced against Mlle. Mory was the second in France against a woman since the start of the war. She is a Swiss newspaper woman.

London, June 7 (AP)—The American embassy today urged all Americans without urgent reasons for remaining to return home aboard the liner Washington leaving Galway, Ireland, about the middle of June because it said this might be their last opportunity until after the war.

Mexico City, June 7 (AP)—The German legation in an official statement charged today that reports of Nazi-directed "fifth column" activity in Mexico could be traced in part to the Dies committee on un-American activities.

The statement said: "The principal instigators of the propaganda which consists of provoking a state of unrest in the North American people are some persons well known in Mexico who in union with the inter-allied committee of propaganda have conspired with the North American Dies."

The legation attacked as unfounded a charge by Representative Martin Dies (D-Tex.) that he had information that "several camouflaged German air bases exist south of the Rio Grande."

Rome, June 7 (AP)—Premier Mussolini today appointed Marshal Emilio Debono, 74-year-old white-whiskered veteran of the World War and Italy's colonial campaigns, commander of Italy's "southern army group."

Where this army will operate was not immediately learned.

London, June 7 (AP)—Lord Beaverbrook, minister of aircraft production, today declared that British factories, during the battle of Flanders, produced planes exceeding the full number of losses in that battle.

In an interview, Lord Beaverbrook said a new bomber, the "largest in the world," has just been flown successfully and is in production.

Paris, June 7 (AP)—French military sources reported today a single fort of the Maginot Line had withstood the pounding of 1,000 shells from German artillery across the Rhine.

The battering from German 150-calibre (six-inch) guns failed to pierce the fortification, the French said.

Ottawa, June 7 (AP)—The German air force scored hits on less than five per cent of the 540 round trips made by ships of the British navy during the withdrawal from Dunkerque, Rear Admiral Percy W. Nelles, chief of the Canadian naval staff, declared today.

Poitiers, France, June 7 (AP)—The semi-official Belga news agency announced today that the first division of the Belgian army reconstituted in France will "soon" join the allied armies.

French Prince Sixte de Bourbon, who volunteered for action with the Belgian forces at the outbreak of hostilities, arrived in Poitiers and said he would fight again with them.

London, June 7 (AP)—The war office today announced a list of 29 German prisoners, mostly naval officers and men. Their average age is 24 years; the oldest among them is 29.

Belfast, June 7 (AP)—Premier Lord Craigavon returned today from defense talks in London and said he had been given "a free hand" regarding defense in northern Ireland.

The premier added that "Britain regards Ulster (northern Ireland) as a Rock of Gibraltar."

'Red Cross' Ship Soon Will Sail

The first Red Cross "mercy ship," the S.S. McKeesport, will be loaded at New York next week with $1,000,000 worth of relief supplies for refugees and wounded in France.

The S.S. McKeesport, now being reconditioned at Baltimore, will sail today for New York. Several days will be required for loading motor trucks, ambulances, foodstuffs, clothing, bedding, drugs, and surgical supplies.

The state department has instructed the Red Cross to have the "mercy ship" fly the Red Cross and United States flags, and to proceed at night fully lighted. All belligerent governments will be notified by the state department of the sailing of the ship to the combat zone, and safe conduct for her will be requested.

The McKeesport will sail for Bordeaux where her cargo will be received in an American Red Cross warehouse now being prepared.

Reports from the national headquarters of the American Red Cross in Washington stated that the War Relief Fund has reached the total of $7,031,814.

air raids on the Rhone valley forced the French to send many crack fighters to the south.

The main German attack was reported to have the advantage of a number of special air divisions which have dive bombers and fighter planes incorporated under the same command as light and medium tank units, with radio communication between the air forces and tanks enabling close cooperation in action.

Reports from the national headquarters of the American Red Cross in Washington stated that the War Relief Fund has reached the total of $7,031,814.

Local Death Record

Mrs. Sophie Lennartz died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Merritt, in Brooklyn, on Wednesday, in her 90th year. Other surviving children are Mrs. Agnes Mohr, and Albert and Charles Lennartz. Funeral services will be held in Brooklyn on Saturday.

William F. Lyle of Cheraw, S. C., died here Thursday following a long illness. For the past two years Mr. Lyle had been with his son, Frank Lyle, of 412 Albany avenue, this city. A machinist by trade Mr. Lyle came here following his retirement several years ago. He is survived by his wife, Effie Jenkin Lyle of Cheraw, and in addition to Frank Lyle, is survived by another son, Walter Lyle, of New York city. The body is in the Henry J. Bruck Home for Funerals, 27 Smith avenue, until Saturday morning at 6 o'clock. Friends may view the body at any time today. Funeral services and burial will take place in Cheraw, on Monday.

Watson Returns Medal

New York, June 7 (AP)—Thomas J. Watson, president of the International Business Machines Corporation, has returned to Adolf Hitler a German decoration given him in 1937 for his efforts in the interest of world peace.

In a letter to Hitler yesterday, Watson explained he was returning the merit cross of the German eagle, with star, because "the present policies of your government are contrary to the causes for which I have been working." Long an active advocate of world peace, Watson has been decorated by several countries.

The 1940 production of bituminous coal at the middle of May, had reached 173 million tons which was nearly 40 per cent ahead of 1939.

Purse Presented To Pastor Pretzsch

REV. WM. H. PRETZSCH

The Rev. William H. Pretzsch closed his active ministry as pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church on Spring street on June 1, and preached his farewell sermon in the church on Sunday, May 26, when he was presented with a purse by the church council as a slight token of the high esteem in which he was held.

Ill health was the reason for Dr. Pretzsch deciding to retire as pastor of the local church, where he had served as pastor for 17 years. He assumed the pastorate of the church on December 2, 1923.

The presentation of the purse was made by Dr. Samuel Trexler, president of the United Lutheran Synod of New York, on behalf of the church.

During the 17 years that Dr. Pretzsch had served the local church he had made himself one of the most active clergy in the religious life of the city. He was the eighth pastor to serve the church since it was organized.

Dr. Pretzsch and his family are now making their home in their new house at Lake Katrine.

Turkey May Face Nazis Raid Wide Baffling Dilemma Due to Her Treaty

observers believe, to convince Turkey of the same thing.

Should Italy enter the war, Turkey therefore may face the obligation of joining the side she believes will be a sure loser—and diplomats expressed doubt that any country would do that, regardless of how great her disposition to loyalty may be.

More cautious than they once were, Turkish officials now say their country's assistance to Britain and France in case she enters the war may be passive rather than active.

A few months ago Turkey stood ready to send her army beyond the frontiers to repel any offensive in the Balkans. Now it is a Mediterranean conflict, rather than a Balkan thrust, that is feared, and Turkey, with her limited air force and navy, is believed able to give little help beyond her borders in such a campaign.

May Establish Bases

Under the treaty the Allies may use Turkish ports as their bases. Informed Turks say the Turkish forces may be needed to cope with attacks made upon her for permitting this.

In any event, Turkey is keeping a big army in Thrace, on the European side of the Bosphorus, to help Greece if that country should be attacked. She also has concentrations along her sea coast to repel any enemy landing, and has a large force in Alexandretta to thwart any attempted drive through there to Syria and the Mosul oil fields.

Most of the troops which were stationed on the Caucasus front have been withdrawn, since Turkey apparently no longer fears an attack by Russia.

Units Are Attacked

R. A. F. bombers attacked mechanized units, troop concentrations and communications behind the German battle front, the communique declared, with hits registered on two convoys and a military train derailed.

The ministry of home security, declaring "the testing time has come," disclosed plans for immediate mass instruction of the public in air raid precautions.

Home Secretary Sir John Anderson appealed to citizens to "be on your toes and be trained for air raid action to reduce Hitler's dividends when the bombs fall."

The British acquiesced in further totalitarian measures as a government order restricted luxury purchases by retailers to two-thirds of their pre-war supplies.

Women were forced to sacrifice glamour, for permanent waves became a luxury and the order cut down supplies of cosmetics, silk hosiery and furs.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, commenting on the increased state control, said that Sir Stafford Cripps, new ambassador-designate to Russia, "can tell Stalin all about the new Socialist Britain."

The newspaper described Britain as: "A land where workers can be shunted hither and thither from job to job at the dictation of the state. A land where strikes are forbidden and lockouts, too."

"A land where the government cuts down luxuries—corsets and lipstick, lawn mowers and vacuum cleaners."

"A land where Mr. Ernest Bevin, a minister of his majesty the king, declares that the system based on monopoly and big business has failed to deliver the goods that a new country has got to be planned."

Remarking that some persons "bleat that their liberties have been taken away" and ask "what's the difference between Britain and the totalitarian powers?" the

They can't get along without it!

The life we lead, the work we do, the pleasures we enjoy are materially influenced by what's going on in the world. It's only natural, therefore, that reading the newspaper should be as much a part of everyday life as eating and sleeping.

Most people, as a matter of fact, can't get along without it... and practically everybody reads a newspaper every day, not only for the news it brings, but for the interpretation it presents, the pictures it prints, the entertainment it provides, the advice it offers.

Small wonder that the newspaper should be the forceful, profitable advertising medium that it is. Small wonder, too, that today, when the news plays so important a part in people's lives, the newspaper is an even more vital and profitable advertising medium than ever before.

Annual Reports And Installation of Officers At D.A.R. Meeting

Annual reports were given by officers and chairmen of Wiltwyck Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution at the June meeting Thursday afternoon and the newly elected officers were installed by the chaplain, Mrs. J. Duncan Lawrence.

The retiring secretary, Mrs. Lancelot Phelps, reported 10 regular and one special meeting. A number of members had attended every meeting, others had attended all but one meeting.

Other annual reports were made by Mrs. Rose K. Witter, chairman; Mrs. O. Allen, corresponding secretary; Mrs. R. H. D. Boerker, registrar; Mrs. Philip Elting, treasurer of the chapter house fund; Mrs. William Macgregor Mills, chapter advisor of the Junior Group; Mrs. Hiram F. Whitney, chairman of Americanism, and Mrs. Clarence L. Dumm, chairman of the entertainment committee.

Mrs. W. Dean Hays, in giving her report as chairman of the correct use of the flag, invited all the members to attend the Flag Day celebration Friday, June 14, at the chapter house at 3 o'clock and to bring a guest.

The librarian, Mrs. Adam H. Porter, asked for contributions of genealogical books and lineage books and stressed the importance of chapter members preserving old Bible records and family histories.

Mrs. William Davis mentions gifts to the chapter house received during the year, among which are one dozen sherbert glasses from Mrs. James W. Scott and one dozen silver forks and spoons from Mrs. T. G. S. Hooke. The Junior Group, as a jubilee project, has given a gas range to the chapter house.

Mrs. A. H. Van Buren, music chairman, gave greetings and Miss Sarah Hasbrouck, as chairman of the Historical magazine, reported 11 subscribers.

Miss Louise A. van Hoevenberg, chairman of the program committee, mentioned five guest speakers and that an effort had been made, as far as possible, to use talent from the chapter on programs and to give selections of American music. She requested suggestions for making next year's program and year book more attractive.

Mrs. Maynard Mize reported one chapter broadcast and Mrs. William S. Simmons, chairman of resolutions, mentioned the six members upon whose death resolutions had been prepared and adopted: Mrs. Anna V. V. Kenyon, Mrs. Albert K. Hart, Mrs. William Lawton, Mrs. R. Lee Rose, Miss Minnie K. Husted and Mrs. T. V. R. Brown. Resolutions upon the death of Mrs. Brown were read and adopted at this meeting.

Mrs. Homer J. Emerick, historian, gave a report of all chapter activities to date.

The chaplain installed the following officers: Regent, Mrs.

Charles A. Terwilliger; vice-regent, Mrs. William Macgregor Mills; second vice-regent, Mrs. Harris C. Inglis; secretary, Mrs. Clarence L. Dumm; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. O. Allen; treasurer, Mrs. Rose K. Witter; registrar, Mrs. R. H. D. Boerker; historian, Mrs. Maynard Mize; chaplain, Mrs. J. Duncan Lawrence; local board, Mrs. Lancelot Phelps; Miss Louise W. van Hoevenberg, Mrs. Burdette R. Tuttle and Mrs. William S. Simmons.

The musical program consisted of a quartet with Mrs. Lancelot Phelps and Miss Catherine McCommons, sopranos, and Mrs. Harry Edson and Miss Anna D. Quimby, altos. Mrs. Burdette R. Tuttle was the accompanist. The selections given were "Happy Summerland" by Mae Carthy and "Mary's Garden" by Stoughton.

The regent appointed the following chairmen of committees: Americanism, Mrs. Hiram F. Whitney; approved schools, Junior Group; auditing, Mrs. James W. Scott; correct use of the flag, Mrs. W. Dean Hays; Ellis Island, Mrs. Margaret O'Sullivan; conservation, Mrs. Prescott J. Clapp; entertainment, Mrs. Maynard Mize; girl homemakers, Junior Group; hospitality, Mrs. William A. Frey; house, Mrs. William M. Davis; motion pictures, Mrs. G. N. Wood; music, Mrs. A. H. Van Buren; national defense, through patriotic education, Mrs. Raymond R. Gross; National Historical Magazine, Miss Sarah W. Hasbrouck; press relations, Mrs. Burdette R. Tuttle; program, Miss Louise W. van Hoevenberg; radio, Mrs. Howard St. John; reception, board of trustees; resolutions, Mrs. William M. Simmons.

The hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Silas LeFever and Miss Idella Hyde.

Surprise Shower

A surprise linen shower was given Miss Mary Tinnie Wednesday evening in honor of her approaching marriage to Eugene Dauner of Kingston, by Mrs. Arthur Fowler, Mrs. Donald Tinnie, Mrs. William Schweigel and Miss Mary Knight, at the home of Mrs. Arthur Fowler on Bayard street, Port Ewen. Miss Tinnie's gifts were attractively arranged under a pink and white umbrella. After a social evening, dainty refreshments were served, which included a large wedding cake with a miniature bride and groom. Those present besides the guest of honor and the hostesses were the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. James Tinnie, her grandmother, Mrs. Matilda Tinnie and her aunt, Mrs. Samuel P. Tinnie, the groom's elect's mother and sister, Mrs. Eugene Dauner and Miss Margaret Dauner, of Kingston, and Mrs. William Stephenson, Mrs. Wallace Mabie, Mrs. Edward Mains, Mrs. John Reynolds, Mrs. Burlin Winchell, Mrs. Alanson Short and Mrs. Harry C. Jump, and the Misses Shirley Fowler, Betty and Wilma Schweigel of Port Ewen and Mrs. Edward Scully, Mrs. Philip Mains and the Misses Edith and Alice Gillette of Kingston.

Honored on 40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Morgan of Hindsdale street, Richmond Park, entertained at dinner Thursday evening in honor of the 40th wedding anniversary of Mrs. Morgan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar B. Schepmoes, 33 Franklin street. The guests included Mrs. John Britt and Mrs. E. O. Van Aken, sisters of Mr. Schepmoes; the Misses Lucy and Elizabeth Hazzard of Poughkeepsie, sisters of Mrs. Schepmoes, and Mrs. DeVal Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart A. Jones, DeVal Howard, Jr., Miss Ethelmae Jones, Miss Anna Jones, Mrs. Ira Britt, Burton L. Morgan and Miss Lucille Morgan. Table decorations were in ruby and silver. During the evening congratulations were also extended to Mr. and Mrs. Morgan on the occasion of their second wedding anniversary.

Personal Notes

Lieut. John Russell Groves has been spending a short time at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Groves, West Hurley, enroute from Fort Benning, Ga., to Madison Barracks, Sackett Harbor. Mr. Groves is attached to the Fifth Field Artillery.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Everett of Delta Place left this morning for Dudley, Mass., to attend the graduation exercises at Nichols Junior College, at which their grandson, George Holland, of Westfield, N. J., will be graduated.

Dr. and Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb of Fair street are on a fishing trip in Maine.

Charles Clapp, who has completed his freshman year at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has returned to his home on Lounsbury Place.

Mrs. Harry G. Plum of Iowa City, Ia., was the overnight guest Thursday of Miss Ellen Van Slyke of "Rockhurst," Marius street.

Mrs. G. V. D. Hutton and son, George, Jr., of Manor avenue, left Wednesday for Deerfield, Mass., where they will attend the closing exercises at Eagle Brook School. They will be accompanied home by William Hutton, a student at the school, who is returning home for the summer.

Miss Sarah W. Hasbrouck and Joseph Hasbrouck of 91 St. James street will spend the week-end in Poughkeepsie as guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Gray.

Miss Yolanda Ferlazzo, a student at the College of St. Rose, has just returned home for her summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Saccoman of Broadway, Mrs. Anthony Erena of Cedar street and Miss Josephine Jablonsky of Newkirk avenue attended the graduation exercises Thursday at St. John's University, Brooklyn.

Suppers-Food Sales

The Lake Katrine Home Department will hold a strawberry festival Thursday evening, June 20, at the home of Mrs. John Boice on the Saugerties road. The public is invited.

Garden Party Held On Academy Grounds

Members of the Mother's Association of the Academy of St. Ursula who worked diligently for many weeks in the preparation for the annual garden party held Thursday on the academy lawns, were awarded with a day perfect in weather conditions for the outdoor fete.

The booths were arranged through the grounds and were attractively decorated with flowers and colorful crepe paper. A bridge party with approximately 40 tables in play was enjoyed during the afternoon under the trees and supper was served during the early evening in another part of the grounds.

The afternoon events included movies for the children, pony rides and a tea dance, the latter an innovation this year. In addition to the features there were many added attractions in the booths of candy, fairy articles made by the occupational therapy department at the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital, doll's children's games, cake and food booth, religious booth, flowers and a tree novelty.

The garden party this year drew one of the largest crowds attending annually. The general arrangements were in charge of Mrs. Raymond E. Craft with Mrs. J. Edwin Phelan in charge of the supper. A large committee of other members of the association also assisted in the arrangements for the affair.

Children Given Prizes

Prizes for perfect attendance were given to three pupils of the Cashin Dancing School at the close of the annual revue presented last evening in the Broadway Theatre. Those receiving the awards were Josephine Ambrose, Dorothy Shelley and Shirley Hankinson. Prizes for selling the most tickets also were given to Carol Murphy, first; Betty Ann Thomas, second; Louise Schwark, third, and Sally Oaks, fourth. The class presented a gift to Miss Cashin and also one to Danny Bittner, studio accompanist. Several numbers of the revue will be repeated Saturday afternoon for the patients of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital.

Lutheran Play Tonight

The three act drama, "The Mystery of the Third Gable," by Lindsey Barbee, will be presented this evening by the Senior Lutheran League of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. Curtain will be at 8:15. The play is under the direction of Miss Helen Schoonmaker.

Kenney-Hulbert Wedding

New York, June 6 (Special)—

The wedding of Joseph C. Kenney, son of Lawrence M. Kenney and the late Mrs. Kenney of Saugerties and New York, to Miss Regina Elizabeth Hulbert, daughter of United States District Judge Murray Hulbert and Mrs. Hulbert, of New York, took place today in the Holy Name Roman Catholic Church with the Rev. John L. Kenney, a brother of the bridegroom officiating. A wedding breakfast at Sherry's followed. The bride was escorted by her father.

She wore a princess gown of ivory satin with a heart-shaped neckline edged with old family duchesse lace, long, tight musketeer sleeves and a long train. Her tulle veil, which extended beyond the train of her dress, was caught up by a coronet of the lace, which was originally worn by her great grandmother.

Mrs. Ferdinand Seighart of New Rochelle was matron of honor. Included among the other attendants was John Byrne of Kingston.

Miss Hulbert was graduated from the Holy Child Convent and Katherine Gibbs School. Mr. Kenney attended Holy Cross College and Fordham Law School.

Most of the activities in Federal Court were suspended during the morning as the judges were at the wedding.

"Trial by Jury" Monday

"Trial by Jury," which will be presented in the St. James Methodist Church by the Trinity Choir of Newburgh, will have several professionals in its cast. Richard Cornell, who takes the part of the judge, is choir director of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Charles T. Everett lives in Plattekill and is quite well known in surrounding towns and Granges as a singer.

Joseph Leng, the foreman of the jury, has been soloist in the First Presbyterian Church and also the American Reformed Church. Jack Goldstein, the defendant, is director of the Cornwall Methodist Church choir. Beatrice Nicholas, the plaintiff, was once soloist at St. George's Church, Newburgh. She sang recently in Washington, D. C., at the Coolidge Memorial Festival with the Schola Cantorum of New York city.

"Trial by Jury" will be brought to Kingston under the auspices of the W. T. W. Class of St. James Methodist Church.

Missionary Visits Here

Miss Elizabeth Black of Visalia, Calif., has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Freer for the past few days. Miss Black's mother was the former Bessie L. Turck, who spent her early years in this part of New York state.

Miss Black has just graduated from the Missionary Training Institute of Nyack and will soon take up missionary work in the mountains of Kentucky. The work is of a pioneer nature, traveling from one little settlement to another, having services or doing nursing work or any sort of work that might need to be done. It is entirely an independent faith work and not being supported by any denominational society.

Miss Black has announced that anyone having clothes or the like that they wish to give away, may contact her by mail at Box 101, Campton, Ky. All donations of this sort will be placed in some of the many needy homes of the Kentucky mountain people.

Foxx and Grove Still Going Strong Beat St. Louis 3-1

(By Associated Press Sports Writer)

Jimmie Foxx and Lefty Grove, who have been performing feats of baseball magic these many years, still can lift a rabbit out of a hat when occasion demands.

Occasion demanded yesterday and these two long-time associates beat the St. Louis Browns 3-1 to preserve the Boston Red Sox' shaky half-game grip on the American League lead.

Grove has been tottering for weeks as a starting pitcher. He was getting knocked out in every game. And when he stiffened the slugging Brown on six hits in this one he still was on the verge of losing 1-0 because one of the hits was a home run by Chet Laabs.

Then Foxx, who had shared Grove's glory for years, came to bat in the ninth inning with two on and two out and poled out his 14th homer of the season to win the game.

It was a bitter break for Emil Bidldi, the young southpaw who shut out Boston for eight innings, but it proved that Grove cannot be counted on yet and that as goes Foxx, so goes the Sox. The victory broke Boston's three-game losing streak.

The Cleveland Indians were poised to take over the lead if Boston had been beaten. The Tribe's terrific infield twins, Lou Boudreau and Ray Mack, took charge of beating the Washington Senators 5-4 in 11 innings. Held at bay by the fine hurling of Rookie Sid Hudson for seven innings, Cleveland tied the score in the eighth when Mack homered. Then in the 11th Boudreau singled home the run that won.

In the National League the Brooklyn Dodgers nursed a new winning streak to five games and moved within a game of the pace-setting Cincinnati Reds by caging the St. Louis Cardinals 9-5. They manufactured a winning margin by batting around for four runs in the third and pecked away a run in five of the six frames that followed. For the Cards, John Mize's 15th homer of the season went to waste.

The Pittsburgh Pirates battled the Boston Bees into a tie for the cellar spot with a 7-6 triumph. The Bees bunched five runs in the second inning and the Pirates came back with a six-run cluster in the third.

The Chicago Cubs set off their biggest hitting fireworks of the season to trounce the Phillies 11-5. Among the Bruisers' 17 hits were two homers by Bill Nicholson and three consecutive doubles by Phil Cavarretta.

The World Champion New York Yankees and the Detroit Tigers both were out-rallied.

Pitcher Buck Ross hit a two-run homer as the Philadelphia Athletics nicked Buck Newsum for three runs in the third. Then Detroit battered Ross out of the box in the eighth only to have the A's score three more runs in the last half of the same inning and win 7-4.

The Chicago White Sox were held to three hits by Spud Chandler for eight innings but got three more and the ball game, 4-3, with a two-run uprising in the ninth after New York had scored twice in the last of the eighth.

Sports Roundup

BY EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, June 7 (AP)—Cardinal players are denying there is dissension in the ranks. . . .

Those "phony" five-buck bills that flooded Belmont Park a few days ago turned out to be good. . . . Monty Stratton has asked Jimmy Dykes to let him pitch at least a part of the exhibition game at Washington (Del.) Monday night.

Monty says the enforced stiffness in his right side has improved his curve ball. . . . Billy Conn is willing to fight Bob Pastor if he gets the biggest end of the purse. Nuts. . . . Our Dodgers are setting a terrific pace on the road—15 victories in 18 games. . . . Bobby Feller will tell the kids how he does it at the fair tomorrow.

News in Ragtime

Johnny Paycheck quits the ring (A very wise and timely thing). And roosting in a sideline pew is John (Mysterious) Montague. If only Dizzy Dean would quit. We'd say three cheers to all of it.

One of Babe Ruth's home run wallpats at Chicago traveled 400 feet. . . . Sounds like old times. . . . Eddie Mead has bought Saverio Turilli, Italian welter, from Bachman. Eddie recently added Everett Rittmire, a featherweight, to his stable. . . .

After the Dodgers beat the Cards Tuesday night, Leo Durocher tossed them a party in his St. Louis pent house. Everybody and everything was toasted—even Whitlow Wyatt's bum knee. Guest star was Joe Medwick who had just got five straight hits off the Brook twirlers. . . . Sam Breadon is in the east huddling with Oliver French of Rochester and some say it's about Billy Southworth.

Bobby Jones and Francis Oulmet, two of golf's than-whom-there-are-no-whomers, have promised to play in all Red Cross matches sponsored by the P.G.A. . . . Dean Hill, who captained the 1910 Georgia Tech eleven, has authored a book, "Football Through the Years." . . . One of the Chicago papers is running the life story of Bob Kennedy, 19-year-old White Sox third sacker. . . . Dan Daniel of the N. Y. World-Telegram wants the majors to establish a West Point of baseball to be supported by Judge Landis' office. Grads would be apportioned among the 16 clubs by lot. . . . Charlie Murray, the Balto. light promoter, is taking a fling at the roller derby game and will stage a mixture of hockey, football and six-day racing on skates.

Second Round in National Open

Cleveland, June 7 (AP)—The field in the 44th National Open Golf Championship answered the second round bell today, convinced that "Slamming Sam" Snead—knocked out a year ago by one of sport's greatest blow-ups—is off the floor and punching harder than ever.

Long an outstanding power player, Snead garnished his distance-getting ability with a brilliant display of putting and approaching yesterday to come in with a remarkable five under par card of 33-34—67, the greatest first round performance in National Open history.

This gave the young Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., professional a two-stroke lead on the pack as it started a second 18-hole trek over the Canterbury course, and had practically every one believing that Sam has recovered fully from that disastrous final-hole eight which robbed him of the open crown at Philadelphia in 1939.

Snead, who never has won a major championship even though he has been a big money and tournament winner since 1937, produced a game as hot as the sun which baked the Canterbury layout. He had five birdies, never was over par and was in the rough only three times. He clipped par on the second, fifth, eighth, 13th and 16th holes with putts ranging from 16 to 25 feet, and produced the "picture" shot of the first round on number 15, hooking a shot around a tree.

Midgets Will Race

At Woodstock Sunday

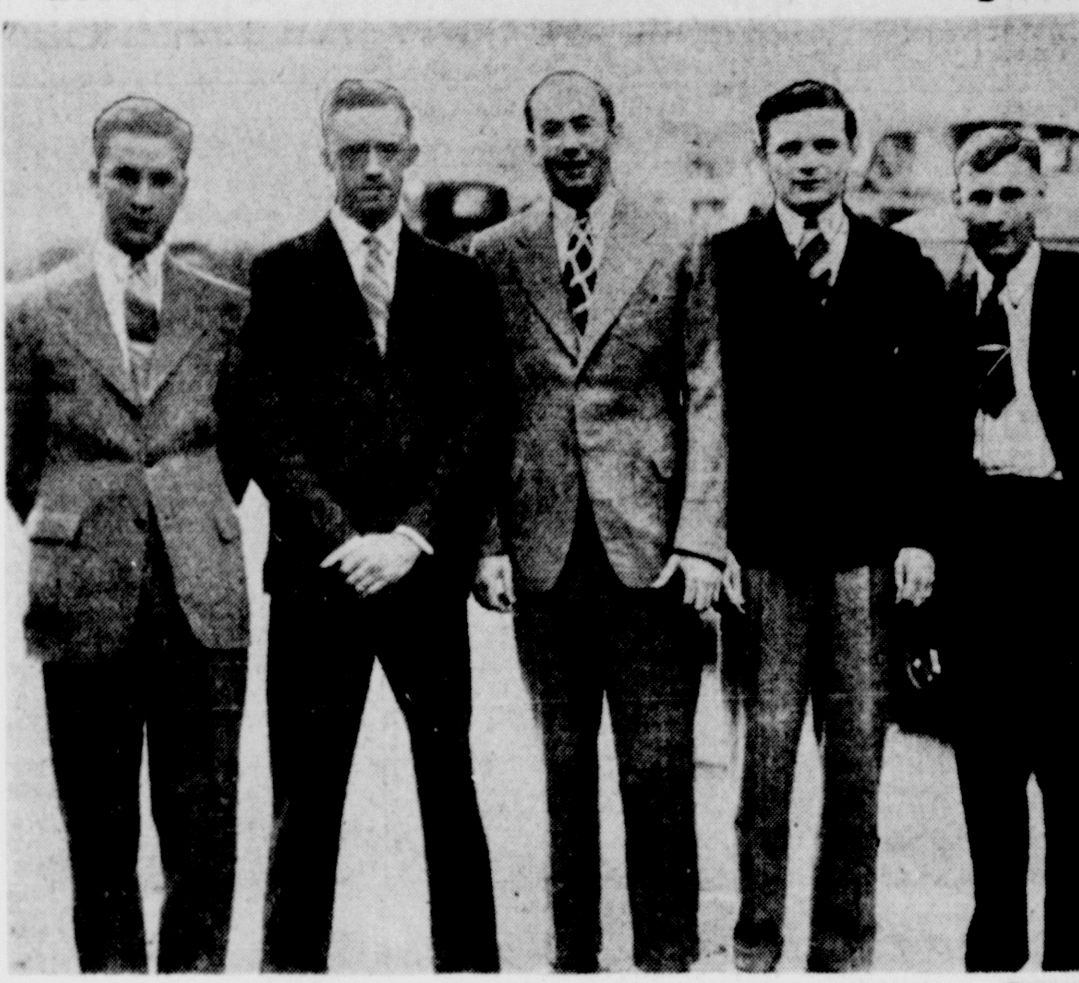

The second series of races at the Woodstock Legion Speedway will be held June 9. Races scheduled for May 26 were called off due to rain. Joe Finta, who drives for Ben Rymer of this city, took the Memorial Day race at Washington Hollow.

Larry Shurter, the Shokan boy who built his own car and took up midget racing at the Woodstock Legion Speedway, was second to Finta. Larry has worked and perfected his car and at the Hollow Track on Memorial Day, he placed first in a heat, a match race, and the semi-final, and then topped the second place in the main.

Dutch Schaeffer, who was Finta's biggest threat at the opening meets, had tough luck when his bearings burned out which made it impossible for him to finish in the main at all.

Sunday's races will start at 3 o'clock with time trials slated for

Received Awards at Bowler's Banquet

The first annual Kingston Booster and Independent Bowling League Banquet was held at the Barn last night with the largest crowd ever to attend a bowling banquet in this vicinity present. The five best bowlers for the season were honored at the dinner. They are, left to right, "Chipe" Rymer, Bob Balfe, Ben Toffel, Ernie Bartroff and Ted Rymer.

Bowling League Banquet At Barn Attracts Crowd

The largest crowd ever to attend a local bowling league banquet assembled at The Barn last evening for the first annual Kingston Booster Bowling League celebration with the Kingston Independent League cooperating.

According to Bill Scully, secretary of the circuit, exactly 353 members and friends were on hand to help draw down the curtain on one of the most successful bowling seasons in this city.

Following the delicious banquet President Gil Sampson took over and presided for the rest of the evening until the entertainment and dancing concluded the program. Before introducing Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, the president acknowledged the work of both Kingston publications and extended appreciation to them for the fine publicity given this past year.

"I'm heartily in accord with the recreation as carried out this year," said the mayor, "and I hope that it will continue in the coming seasons." He went on to say that Gil Sampson, "Judge Landis" of bowling in this city, has contributed much to the promotion of the sport.

Before concluding Mayor Heiselman expressed his appreciation to the committee for the invitation given to Mrs. Heiselman and himself in order that they might be at this splendid occasion. "In this day and age," said the mayor, "we have to 'take it' and that's what many of the teams have done this year."

President Sampson then introduced Martin Kellenberger, representative of the A. B. C. Bowling Congress and first vice president of the Kingston Bowling League. He congratulated the committee for selecting The Barn for the site of the first annual banquet. Then Mr. Kellenberger awarded the A. B. C. medal to Ben Toffel who made a 279 mark during the year for a high single game.

After this President Gil Sampson announced the many winners of prizes. They are:

NEBRASKA GROCERY KNEE-DEEP IN JUNE—MUD

The owner of this grocery store in Homer, Nebr., went wading—in mud—when he entered his establishment after sudden heavy rains sent creeks out of their banks. Counters were washed into a heap, shelves filled with mud, and the proprietor indicates with his right hand the depth of the water at the height of the flood.

George Murdock Held for New York

George Murdock 17, of 638 East 32nd street, Brooklyn, who was arrested yesterday for a traffic violation, and who was sentenced to six days in jail to give the police an opportunity to check on his story of how he obtained the car he was driving, is wanted in New York city to answer to a charge of driving a stolen car. According to the police while Murdock was being conveyed to jail after being sentenced to a week he asked to be returned to police headquarters where he would tell the truth.

The police say that Murdock then confessed that he had stolen the car he was driving when arrested here. At the time he was picked up by Motorcycle Officer avenue he had three other youths with him. The four said they were high school students and that evenings they worked as ushers in a Brooklyn theatre. The three other youths said that Murdock had told them he had been given the car as a birthday present, and that he had invited them to go along with him to visit relatives in Kingston. The three youths were not held by the police.

Later yesterday the police department received a message from the New York police that they would send officers here after Murdock and the automobile.

Mass, Reception To Honor Priest

The ceremonies marking the departure of the Rev. William H. Kennedy from St. Mary's Church will begin with a solemn Mass at 11 o'clock on Sunday, June 9, which Father Kennedy will offer.

The ministers of the Mass will be two of Father Kennedy's most intimate associates in the priesthood, the Rev. Francis J. Boyle of Peekskill, and the Rev. Francis X. FitzPatrick, who at one time was a fellow assistant with Father Kennedy at St. Mary's.

This Mass also will be in the nature of a commemoration of the 15th anniversary of his ordination. Plans already had been made to hold this Mass when the news of Father Kennedy's change was announced.

Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, a farewell reception will be given Father Kennedy by the people of St. Mary's. Many civic officials are expected to be on hand. There will be a short speaking program, interspersed with musical numbers. James M. Murphy will be in charge, and the speakers will be Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman, the Very Rev. Martin J. Drury, and Joseph F. Sullivan, who will represent and speak for all of St. Mary's parishioners.

Federal Agents Arraign Negro On Still Charge

Heywood Martin of Haverstraw was arrested by federal agents for possession of an unlicensed still at Roseville, near Haverstraw, and brought to Kingston for arraignment before U. S. Commissioner Charles de la Vergne Thursday.

Martin, a negro, waived examination and was held in $1,000 bail for federal court. Unable to provide the bail he was placed in the Ulster county jail pending transfer to New York.

The visit to the jail was no new experience for Martin since he has twice before been in jail on illegal liquor operations this spring.

Officers Get Man Wanted Nine Years

After enjoying his freedom for some years, during which time he was wanted as a parole violator, Bertel Meeks, 36, negro, who gave his address as South Boston, Va., was taken into custody yesterday at East Kingston by Deputy Sheriff's Winnie and McCullough. He was held for Parole Officer Locke and return to prison.

Since he was released on parole Meeks is said to have been mostly in the south, some of the time employed by the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., but since April he has been employed at the Goldrick brickyard. His original conviction followed a shooting affair at Hudson.

Ministers Hold Union Meeting

Approximately 100 ministers and their wives enjoyed an excellent program at the union meeting of the Ramapo Valley Clergy Club and the Ontario Methodist Ministers' Association held at the Port Ewen Methodist Church on Tuesday, June 4.

After the morning devotional service Dr. Joseph W. Chasey, former district superintendent of the Kingston District, and a recent delegate to the Methodist General Conference at Atlantic City, N. J., gave a number of highlights of the conference. Concerning the social legislation of the church, Dr. Chasey said, "If the war in Europe had broken while the conference was in session some of the legislation would not have passed and other measures that were defeated would have been passed."

After a luncheon, served by the ladies of the Port Ewen Methodist Church, the group reassembled for the afternoon session. Dr. Cartnell, rector of St. Mary's, in Tuxedo Park, gave a talk on "The Meaning of the Symbols of the Church." Morning devotions were conducted by the Rev. R. B. Guice, president of the Ontario Methodist Ministers' Association, and the afternoon devotions were conducted by the Rev. Philip A. Solberg, president of the Ramapo Valley Clergy Club.
